NOTE

This Index to the works of John W. Doorly was begun by Margaret Townsend of Harrogate, and was eventually compiled by Derek and Joyce Andreae.

The Index is concerned in the main with John Doorly's teaching of the fundamentals of the Science and system of Christian Science. It does not contain references to the Bible interpretation per se, which is the subject of the nine volumes of John Doorly's "Talks on the Science of the Bible" and the four volumes of verbatim reports of his Oxford Summer Schools. The index at the beginning of each of the nine volumes in the maroon edition gives page numbers to all the cross-headings in the text, which make for easy reference to Bible subjects. This has not seemed to be necessary in the verbatim reports of the Oxford Summer Schools.

This Index does not claim to be in any way exhaustive of John Doorly's teaching on any subject, but the compilers have endeavoured to be governed by the following criteria:

- (a) the Index is one of subjects not words
- (b) the subjects chosen are big issues in the understanding of Christian Science
- (c) in general no reference is shorter than half a page, and is only then included if a subject is dealt with in a comprehensive way
- (d) where a subject is a specific interpretation of, e.g. a Bible text, it has not usually been included
- (e) where it is considered helpful subjects are cross-referenced
- (f) unless otherwise stated, references begin and end at a cross-heading
- (g) in the following books page numbers refer to the maroon editions:
 - "Talks on the Science of the Bible" (13 volumes)
 - "The Pure Science of Christian Science"
 - "Christian Science Practice"

The following abbreviations are used throughout for the various books:
